

Karen Fitzgerald Oration: “Challenges facing young children in out-of-home care”

This talk will consider some of the challenges facing young children in out-of-home care. Although such children especially need sensitive and committed foster carers, several factors (including the non-permanent nature of the relationship, and characteristics of the child and of the parent) may make it difficult for foster parents to be sensitive and committed.